PROJECT DESCRIPTION:

The mandate involved delivering consulting services to our client to draft an offer of services for the purposes of developing, designing and implementing an agricultural insurance program in Peru. The work was done over a period of one month. Staff from FADQDI met several local actors, especially micro-credit agencies, insurance companies, producer groups, and government organizations in charge of legislation in the field of insurance. Before proceeding with drafting the offer of service, the FADQDI team devised a custom-made agricultural insurance program. In order to determine development and implementation costs, our experts detailed each one of the components of the information system which supports the exchange of information from insurance protection, as well as data flux and roles and responsibilities of the various actors.

ACHIEVEMENTS:

- ⊕ Leadership of workshops with financial institutions, insurers, producers and the government of Peru
- ⊕ Diagram of operational processes
- ⊕ Information flux mapping
- ⊕ Design of information system
- ⊕ Component breakup
- ⊕ Assessment of costs
- ⊕ Time chart
- ⊕ Roles and responsibilities of various actors (insurers, government departments, managers of funds)
- ⊕ Strategic presentation to advisers of the department of Agriculture of Peru
